PARASHAT KI TETZE

Respect. That is the central lesson learned from this week's Torah portion. Respect for one's spouse, respect for another person's dignity. Respect even for one's lost possessions. All throughout the Torah, human beings are to be treated with an inherent respect because we are created in God's image. As much as we are commanded to respect, let us not forget to give respect to God, let alone, ourselves.

Please join us following services for Kiddush sponsored by Sharona and Sam Daghighian in honor of the Bar Mitzvah celebration of their son, Evan. Mazel Tov to Evan and the Daghighian family! We also would like to say Happy Birthday to all those celebrating with us today. Thank you to all.
